LIMITS OF COPYRIGHT AND RELATED RIGHTS

Keywords: principle of right exhaustion, fair use of copyright objects and related rights, limits of copyright and related rights, rules of "three-steps test", Berne convention on protection of literary and artistic works, fair use doctrine
Examples of unreasonable confusion of criteria of exhaustion of right and limits of right are observed in modern legal literature. To clarify the point the author refers to European experience in updating legal regulation in the sphere of intellectual property. The EC Directive "On harmonization of some aspects of copyright and related rights in information society" is taken as an example. There are examined instances of fair use of copyright objects and related rights in compliance with international conventions and other current national civil laws. The author shows possible trends in development of copyright and related rights limits in terms of fair use theory which is widely used in common law countries.

SOME PROBLEMS OF RUSSIAN LAWS ON EMPLOYEES' PERSONAL DATA

Keywords: employees' personal data, German laws, reliable experience of Germany, personal data protection, administrative and technical measures
Modern IT development leads to increasing number of employees' personal data are being stored in databases. Unfortunately, information leaks occur on electronic media which lead to criminal acts against people concerned. This proves insufficient protection of electronic materials with personal data against abuses of persons who process this kind of information. How should citizens' personal data and employees' personal data in particular be protected? The author believes that reliable experience of other nations in this field should be used to amend Russian legislation in this area.
